Artist Statement:

I believe in the power of beauty to take us out of ourselves, to give hope, to inspire, to break mental boundaries of our own limitations. Whenever I'm working on a landscape, a portrait or a figurative painting, I think of intangible and timeless within my work. I'm attracted and focused on the beauty, its visible and invisible components. Thus my artworks take a semi-abstract quality, capturing the invisible, and expanding beyond the boundaries of traditional genres in art. The symbolism of my paintings comes through the lens of my Eastern European heritage, and is rooted in being raised in a country with ancient history, rich tradition and multicultural exchange, where East meets West. I naturally adapted myself to the multifaceted environment, searching for the 'universal' visual language.
